INTRODUCTORY

The canvass for the information contained in this, the nineteenth edition of R. L. Polk & Co.'s Des Moines City and Valley Junction Directory, has been as complete as is possible to make it and covers all the territory included within the limits of Greater Des Moines.

As well as being an annual enrollment of the citizens, their occupation and places of business and residence, the City Directory is a record and an exposition of the city's progress from year to year, and a complete encyclopedia of everything that pertains to the people, their government, churches, schools, societies, clubs, associations and other institutions. It is one of the most frequently consulted books in print and wherever used is a splendid advertisement of the city's resources.

POPULATION OF GREATER DES MOINES, 109,355.

In this issue, not counting business firms, corporations, duplicates, churches, schools, etc., there are 43,742 individual names. Using the multiple of $2\frac{1}{2}$ —to allow for the names of women and children not included in the canvass—we have a present population of 109,355 for the area covered by the Directory.

There is considerable difference between the Directory estimate and the result of the recent Federal enumeration—The Directory canvass is made under a duplicate system, including both residence and place of business or employment, which reduces to a minimum the chance of omissions and the work is performed by men who are trained to it and who follow it as an occupation. The government census is the result of a single residential enumeration, which presents few if any opportunities for proof of its correctness, and is usually conducted by persons having no prior experience in such work. Again, the work of the United States census is confined strictly to the limits of the city, whereas the Directory canvass has always reached beyond the city limits in all directions where thousands of names are obtained which will be found listed in this book and which make it much more valuable as a work of reference than it would be were the publishers to leave out the adjacent territory. Taking these conditions into consideration it is reasonably certain that the Directory estimate is nearer the actual population.

DES MOINES TODAY.

The capital and commercial metropolis of Iowa and the city that is doing things—big things, and many of them, is beautifully and healthfully located on gently sloping hills at the confluence of the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers near the geographical center of the state.

The city's railroad facilities are not surpassed anywhere, each of the following lines giving distinct and independent outlets: Burlington Route; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Chicago Great Western; Chicago & Northwestern; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern; Iowa Central; Minneapolis & St. Louis; St. Paul & Des Moines, and the Wabash. Over 100 trains carrying passengers arrive at and leave the city daily, and an average of 11,000 carloads of in and out freight of all kinds per month (132,000 carloads for the year) is the record of business done for two successive years by the railroads centering here. In addition to the above there are over 175 miles of freight-carrying interurban roads and others being promoted.

Des Moines is front in manufacturing in Iowa, its 312 factories covering a line of varied interests and employing 12,800 operatives.

Des Moines is the leading jobbing point in Iowa. At the present time there is scarcely a line of goods for which there is any demand whatever that is not represented here. And what is better, Des Moines is a competitive market; two or more houses in each line. Jobbing trade for the year, including the farm machinery and vehicle business over $100,000,000.

Des Moines occupies a notable position in the business world as the headquarters of more insurance capital than is employed in any city west of Chicago, the city having, because of its many and strong companies, long been known as the "Hartford of the West." The home offices of fully 46 insurance companies, including fire, life, fraternal, etc., are located here and receive over $11,000,000 annually in premiums.

The whole city and the surrounding country being underlaid with the best quality of bituminous coal, large mines being operated in and near the city, the Des Moines manufacturer is enabled to put fuel into his coal bins at a nominal cost.

Architecturally no city of its size anywhere excels Des Moines. Majestic public buildings, magnificent business blocks, stately churches, spacious and handsome school buildings, grand mansions and beautiful dwellings tell the story of civilization and prosperity and of social and individual progress.

The state has here a capitol building costing $4,000,000; historical building costing $500,000; state fair grounds representing $2,500,000 invested; all departments of the state government and headquarters for all the state institutions are here.

Study the Science of Business and Increase Your Earnings

THE KNOX SCHOOL

of Applied Salesmanship and Business Science

311 CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK BUILDING

Is largely increasing the earnings of its students.

The Course of Study includes the following five great departments:

1. Man Building, the development of the Personality, the knowledge of self and of human nature in general; business logic, business psychology and public speaking.
2. Business Building and Business Management.
3. Salesmanship, Wholesale, Retail, Insurance, Specialty.
4. Advertising, Retail and General.
5. Business Letter Writing, how to become an expert correspondent.

We have twice as great a demand for men to fill the positions under these five heads, as we can possibly supply.

Give us an opportunity to show you how to fit yourself for the position you desire at a salary of from one hundred to three hundred dollars a month.

One year ago one of our students was a bank clerk at $35 a month, now he is a Salesman and making over $200 a month and is only twenty-five years old. Let us show you how you can do likewise. Don't you want to be shown. Then see us at once.
